Growth Of Wheat Pool Movement

The farmers of Western Canada in less than three years, have established the largest cooperative organization of its kind in the world. The Canadian Wheat Pool, with its headquarters in the province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, now has a total membership of 125,000 farmers, who own 1,250,000 acres of wheat land in wheat lands in the three prairie provinces. It is handling the sale of the greater part of the wheat production of Canada, and Canada already exports more wheat than any country in the world.

The first of the three pools commenced business in the province of Alberta in October, 1923, and at the close of the first year on Jan. 20, 1924, had handled 54,300,000 bushels of wheat shipped by its members.

Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Saskatchewan were organizing pools. In the fall of 1923, they had performed practical organization and the three provinces also decided to bring strong into one great marketing organization. This brought the Canadian Cooperative Wheat Producers' Limited. Its function is to take delivery of the wheat from each of the respective provincial pools and to place it on the market in such a manner as to secure a price commensurate with the natural law of supply and demand of the three provincial pools for themselves, gathering the wheat of its members and placing it at the disposal of the central selling agency, which is controlled by a board of nine directors composed of the provincial vice-presidents and one director of each of the three pools.

The largest proportion of the wheat is sold by the selling agency to foreign buyers, before it is different countries of the world, for the agency has direct contacts with all the important countries and to its own representatives in all parts of the world. The funds which accrue from the wheat are returned to the members of the three pools. This method of handling wheat provides a large volume of cash and reduces the financial strain on the farmer.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to estimate in dollars and cents the actual increase in the price of wheat, attributable to the operations of the three pools. The Pool has been able to secure a price for the wheat of the farmer, has the opportunity of receiving a price for the wheat which has been raised on the market and creating a gain which invariably flows back to the farmer. The strength of the Pool lies in its handling power, which is its facility for securing in great quantities and in all countries.

The first cooperative organization of farmers grew out of the experience of the first wheat market established by the Canadian Government during the war years, which was known as the Wheat Board. Immediately after the war the farmers of the three prairie provinces organized to maintain the Wheat Board, but it had been brought into being and had been under a War Measures Act, the machinery for its maintenance immediately passed to the farmers. The Wheat Board was then organized to handle the marketing of the wheat in a way that would prevent the farmer from being a victim of the market.

Thenceforth, said the wheat was sold at a price that would be a fair price to the farmer. The Central Selling Agency with its direct contacts with the world, is able to handle the wheat in a way that would be a fair price to the farmer. The Central Selling Agency with its direct contacts with the world, is able to handle the wheat in a way that would be a fair price to the farmer. The Central Selling Agency with its direct contacts with the world, is able to handle the wheat in a way that would be a fair price to the farmer.

The Wheat Pool in Western Canada is a notable example of the advantages of cooperative marketing. It is the only one that has shown the possibilities and advantages of cooperative marketing. Under the old system the farmer sold his wheat and took the market. Under the new system the farmer sells his wheat to the pool, which then handles the marketing of the wheat in a way that would be a fair price to the farmer. The pool then handles the marketing of the wheat in a way that would be a fair price to the farmer.

With the development of Canada's agricultural base, only one of the ways in which the farmer can get the best price for his wheat is through the pool. The pool is the only one that has shown the possibilities and advantages of cooperative marketing.

Questions Which Will Likely Be Dominant At Imperial Conference

OTTAWA—While the rooms of delay still "sit" the Imperial Conference opened on October 31, the first of four corners of the Empire will come to the representatives of the Dominions, of India, and of the commonwealth and provinces. There will be no real round table conference. The British will be the dominant force. There will be the usual problems which, conference after conference, have become the staple of the Empire. The first of these will be the question of the Dominions, who, as the British, are the dominant force. The second will be the question of the commonwealth and provinces. The third will be the question of the Empire. The fourth will be the question of the world.

Going Away With Sleep

Chemists May Succeed in Making Sleep Unnecessary

One cannot read the proceedings of the American Chemical Society, in session recently at Philadelphia, without having the suspicion that we are about to live in a new world. The chemists are duplicating the performances of nature so effectively, in giving us the odors of flowers, the flavors of fruits and spices and so on, that

It is difficult indeed to visualize any multiple world in which men and women will not need to sleep. Instead of lying in bed, as they have been told, they will be able to sleep in the air. Scientists tell us all they need to do is swallow some or two pellets of a chemical, chemical which sleep-induces in the human system, and they are sleeping. They are not using any energy. The economists' predictions of such a change are based on computation. But the thing may happen. These wise fellows, who are using electronic tools in research and technology, have not yet realized the particular drug which meets the physical requirements of sleep. They suspect its character. They are already chasing it. If they do not find it, they will have to wait yet. Experience warns us, nonetheless, that when they get something to lead against their generalization it is down.

There is a bright aspect of the matter. If the chemists succeed in finding sleep unnecessary, there will be more sleeping. —Oswald J. Roemer

A Wood-Burning Auto

Artist Company of Paris Claims

Machine is a Success

On the eve of the Paris National Exhibition, the first of the new, innovative diesel engines appeared in advance in the shape of big advertisements in the Paris press by the Messageries offering for sale a gasoline-powered burning automobile, which, according to the advertisement, was a record.

Recently a fourteen-ton automobile of this type made a complete circuit of France—2,250 miles—at a cost of $15.

It is a 12-hp motor or charged with a 120° high temperature, a special apparatus attached to the left side of the car and transformed into which mixed with air, passes on to the motor and is exploded in the cylinder. The same as ordinary gas is a liquid fuel.

The company's announcement states that light motor trucks loaded to thirty km run 60 miles without refueling, at a cost slightly per cent less than ordinary gasoline.

The spectacle is promoted of a driver of this vehicle caught short and, calmly stepping at the wheel,
